Reading Week 2019-20

Create a cosy 'book nook': turn a corner of your classroom or library into an area where pupils can relax and enjoy reading books. The more cushions, the better! Look through our Great Books Guide for some of our favorite recent reads for children.

Tell some stories: encouraging children to read for pleasure is about more than just getting them to pick up a book - it's equally as important to appreciate a good story. Read a book with your class at the end of each day for 20 minutes, and let them simply sit back and enjoy...

Bring a book to life: act out one of your class's favourite books - maybe one from our Great Books Guide. Let the children grab some props, musical instruments and whatever else they want out, and have some fun re-telling the story together.

Hold a book club: set up a fun lunchtime book club, where pupils can enjoy discussing books and stories in more detail. Make it relaxed, cosy, and don't forget the snacks!

Start writing: Children's Book Week opens up lots of great opportunities for you to encourage your pupils to write. Why not suggest they write a review of their favourite book or create a character profile? If you display these in your book corner, they may go on to help other pupils looking for their next exciting book to read.

Get creative: Let your pupils get arty by drawing their favourite characters from different books, creating their own personalised bookmarks or even designing their own book covers. Get out the paints, crayons and glitter, and have some fun!

Arrange a special visitor: Children's Book Week is an ideal time to arrange for an author or illustrator to visit your school and inspire the pupils about reading and writing
